

August, 2008 / Av, 5768

Volume Number: 3 Issue Number: 6

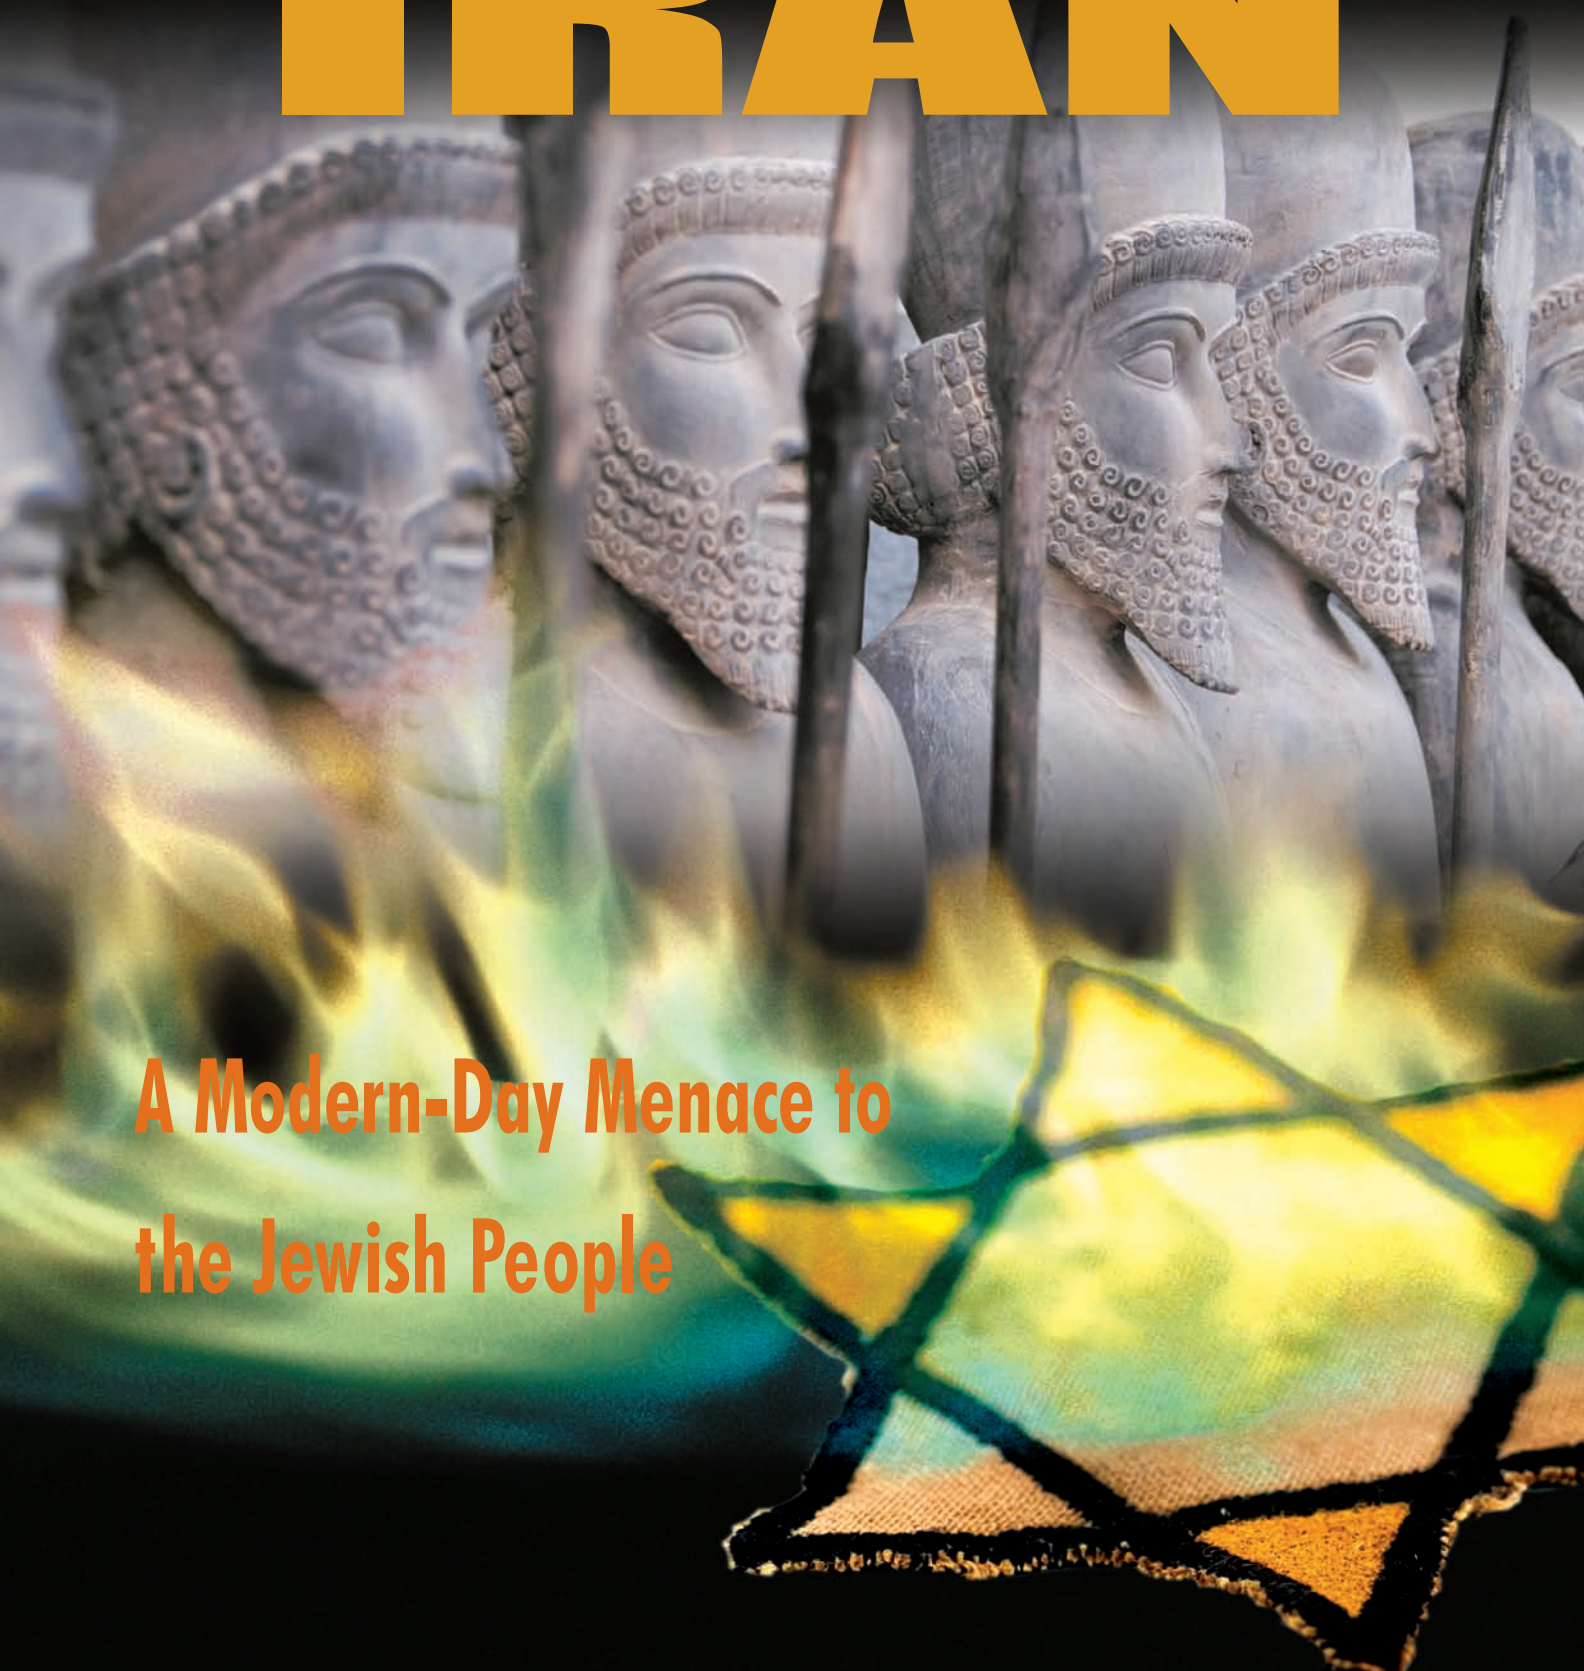

The Chosen People

REACHING JEWISH PEOPLE IN THE UNITED KINGDOM

IRAN

A Modern-Day Menace to the Jewish People

DIRECTOR'S LETTER

God willing, as you receive this letter, most of the staff and trustees of Chosen People Ministries will not be in London, but in Israel, for an international workers' conference. This is a once-in-a-decade event, and very special for us all. While we are there, no doubt we will be conscious of the threat that hangs over Israel's head like the sword of Damocles. Of course, the concern of the world is more that Israel might defend herself against the sworn nuclear threat than over the possibility that her enemies might use their weapon for its declared intent. That declared intent is to 'wipe Israel from the face of the earth.'

Whatever your views on peace in the Middle East, I am sure that you agree that this is not a tolerable threat for any nation to live with. This is a threat that all Israelis—including our workers, our friends and relatives—live with in the Land every day. Yet, they continue to share their faith, and in the heat of the crucible, people are coming to recognise their Messiah, and refined gold and silver are coming forth. When we have been there and learned more about our work in that Land, we will share with you what we have seen. In the meantime, you might consider joining us for a tour to Israel next spring, as advertised within this newsletter.

Daniel Nessim

In every generation, there have been those who sought to destroy the Jewish people. As the threat from Israel's immediate neighbours has diminished in the last decades, new threats have arisen from further afield. Is there a reason for this? We believe there is, and that it is a spiritual reason. The Jewish people are still the 'apple of God's eye.' Corrie ten Boom, who helped hide Jewish people from the Nazis during the Holocaust, knew this verse from Zechariah and lived by it. The Adversary opposes God, and therefore opposes those that God cares for. God still cares for the Jewish people, including the Jewish people who live in the State of Israel. It is His desire that all people everywhere should repent (Acts 17:30).

There are those who believe that in preaching the Gospel to Jewish people, we are committing 'spiritual genocide.' The fear is that this too could lead to the destruction of the Jewish people. On the contrary, the words that we speak are life and truth. The Messiah that we lift up is the Messiah of Israel. It is in Him that the Jewish people can truly become alive. What a wonderful thing it is to see Jewish people in Israel increasingly turning to Jesus, Yeshua, and accepting Him not only as Messiah but also as Lord and Saviour. It is our prayer that this wave of the Spirit might also come to our shores, here on the British Isles. It is to this end that we work and pray.

This month, we have chosen to highlight the very real threat that Israel faces from Iran. It is an increasingly real threat as Iran's nuclear programme advances and as they test missiles that could easily reach the cities of Israel. It is my hope that you will be a bit more aware both of the dangerous situation, but also of the way that God can work in the lives of individuals who are affected by it. As we actively support the work of Chosen People Ministries in Israel, we need you to pray with us that in this dire situation, God might turn evil to good. The greatest good we can think of is the reconciliation of individuals to their God.

Thank you for your prayers and support for our work here in the United Kingdom and abroad.

Yours in our Messiah,

Daniel

Daniel

NEWS BRIEFS

Opportunity in Israel

Victor writes from Israel: A few weeks ago, a girl who serves in the Israeli Defense Forces with our daughter called my wife Julia and asked her to tell a group of fifty soldiers how Jews can believe in the Messiah. God is a miracle-working God! Moreover, on her way to meet the group, Julia met John, a dear friend of ours and pastor who worked with us here years ago whom we hadn't seen for a long time! John joined us to speak to the soldiers, and they were overwhelmed to see this Gentile man who laid aside everything to serve Israel and the Jewish people. Julia and a young Jewish believer gave their testimony and were extremely well received.

Shocked into Listening

Ricardo C., our director in Argentina, writes: 'I recently had some speaking engagements in Córdoba, Argentina. There, I met a young Jewish man, 22-year-old Mark. After an hour-long conversation, he was so interested in our message that he came with us to another presentation we had in that city. Knowing he was carefully listening to me, I emphasised the sacrifice of the living Messiah who makes us clean before God.

Mark was so shocked that later he came to me to tell me he would start coming to our ministry's activities in Córdoba. Interestingly, he is taking a course with a non-Messianic rabbi. As we were talking I was able to show him the rabbi's mistakes. This made him even more interested!

Mark will surely talk about what he has seen and heard, and this will have an effect upon the greater Jewish community of Córdoba. Now we pray for him, because he has listened to the Good News.

Iran and the Jewish People

A History of Hostility

Modern-day Iran, which is situated east of Iraq beyond the Tigris River, boasts a long and colourful history. Biblically, it is the same Persian Empire that Cyrus the Great established in 550 BC, after Babylonia surrendered to Cyrus (Ezra 1:3-5) in the time of the exile of the Jewish people in that region. The reign of Darius the Mede (522-468 BC) marked the zenith of the Persian Empire (Daniel 5:31).

How ironic it is, given the present animosity between these two ancient peoples, that the Persians lent their support to a Jewish return to their homeland in the time of Ezra and Nehemiah.

Iran under Islam

Centuries later, after the death of Mohammed in 632 AD, the religion of Islam infiltrated Iran, and today Iran is a Muslim country. The present population of Iran is about 70 million people, a majority of them Shia Muslims (89%), with a minority of Sunni Muslims (10%). Although there has been a Jewish presence in Iran since well before the rise of Islam, the Jewish population there now numbers only a few thousand people. By contrast, there are currently 250,000 Iranian Israelis. These include both those born in Iran and now living in Israel, and those born in Israel to one or both Iranian-born parents.

Ahmadinejad said, 'Israel is a disgraceful blot that must be wiped off the map.'

Iran is now a country governed by hardliners who intend to end Western influence in the Muslim world, eradicate Israel, and establish a radical Islamic empire that would span from Spain to Indonesia.

Politics of Hatred

Casting the Jewish people as the scapegoat responsible for all evil is not a new political strategy, but it is one that has certainly worked before. At an anti-Israel conference titled 'The World without Zionism' attended by 4,000 students in Tehran, Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad said,

continued on page 4

Dariush—An Iranian Jew Meets the Messiah

I was born in Tehran. I grew up in a Jewish home, but only went to synagogue two or three times a year. At the time, Iran was a secular Muslim nation with a Jewish population of roughly 70,000 centred in Tehran. Though Iran was friendly to Western culture, the nation never embraced the Jewish people. I remember watching my fellow Iranians in the streets chanting 'death to the Jews' before a soccer game in which Iran was to compete with Israel.

In 1975, I moved to the United States to attend college. There, I met Eliezer Urbach, then an outreach worker with Chosen People Ministries. I was intrigued by the idea that Jesus was the Jewish Messiah and even attended a meeting, but left uninterested. Some students followed up with me and showed me unconditional love as they explained the Gospel and Jesus' fulfilment of the Messianic prophecies in the Hebrew Scriptures. Not only did I come to faith in Messiah Jesus, but I became even more interested in my Jewish heritage and continued to celebrate the biblical holy days.

I soon told my parents, who were still living in Iran, of my new faith. Though they initially showed indifference, as I witnessed to them they became nervous. They spoke with a rabbi in Israel, who explained that I had been brainwashed by Christian missionaries. My parents became extremely concerned and demanded I return to Iran. I agreed, but hid my passport and return ticket after I arrived for fear they would take them from me.

Tried and Tested in the Faith

In Tehran, and later in Jerusalem, my parents took me to two rabbis in an attempt to talk me out of my beliefs. Ultimately, they decided to enrol me in a yeshiva (a strict Orthodox Jewish school) for troubled youths in New York.

The yeshiva was designed to be totally self-sufficient; students had very few reasons even to go outside, and quitting school was out of the question. Still, despite their efforts to change my mind, I only became more convinced of my faith and resolved to leave the yeshiva.

While in New York, I became friends with Sam Nadler, a Jewish believer who later served with Chosen People Ministries. In order to move out of the yeshiva unnoticed, I began slowly to move my belongings into Sam's home. Finally, one weekend, I left and never went back.

Once back in Colorado, I told my parents what had happened. They cut off my financial support. I kept my address hidden from them and worked my way through college. I eventually moved to Los Angeles, met my wife, and participated in an Iranian church.

After the Iranian Revolution, my parents moved to Los Angeles. Seeing my continued love for my Jewish identity, their hearts softened towards me, my family, and my faith. Today, my family and I participate in outreaches to Iranian Jews and Muslims in the Los Angeles area.

RESOURCES

Jewish Art Calendar
£8 plus £2 P&P.

Order now to start the Jewish New Year with the Chosen People Ministries' Jewish Art

Calendar. As the months unfold, your sense of wonder will be renewed as you reflect upon the beauty of the Land and the promises of God that are given through it—promises that are indeed fulfilled in the Messiah He has sent. These calendars make great gifts, especially for Jewish friends who need to hear about the Messiah.

For more Messianic Jewish products, visit us online at www.chosenpeople.org.uk

CHOSEN PEOPLE MINISTRIES
MESSIANIC TOUR

MARCH 8-16, 2009 • PRICE £999

ISRAEL

Land of the Bible

An unforgettable, life-enriching experience!

'Jerusalem... my chief joy' Psalm 137:6

For bookings or more details please contact

Polly Zabari, Archtours Limited

1 Danes Court Cottage, Leatherhead Road

Oxshott, Surrey KT22 0HQ

Tel: 01372 843678, Mob: 07971 169639

Archtours.UK@tesco.net

(IATA: 91231604 ABTA: 62401)

'Israel is a disgraceful blot that must be wiped off the map.' Mr. Ahmadinejad's rhetoric is consistent with that of Iran's political and religious leadership since the founding of the Islamic regime in 1979.

Iran is also working hand-in-glove with Israel's other enemies, and the drumbeat of hatred is becoming more insistent. In a day when Hamas leaders continue to insist that 'Israel is a tumour which needs to be removed,' the Arab media routinely promotes Holocaust denial and publishes cartoons showing images of rabbis draining the blood of Arab children to bake matzos for Passover. Now that Iran has made it clear that it will pursue its nuclear programme, is it any wonder that Israel and its allies are becoming increasingly anxious?

The promises of God continue to hold true. Israel is still 'the apple of God's eye.'

Overcoming Evil through Prayer and the Promises of God's Word

The Jewish people are no strangers to the hatred of the world. Yet the promises of God continue to hold true. Israel is still 'the apple of God's eye' (Zechariah 2:8), and God has declared that 'No weapon formed against you shall prosper...' (Isaiah 54:17). Therefore, no Haman, Hitler, or Ahmadinejad has ever or will ever succeed in destroying the Jewish people. But God's people must not become complacent. Believers need to 'Pray for the peace of Jerusalem' (Psalm 122:6) and cling to the promise of 1 John 5:4, 'For whatever is born of God overcomes the world. And this is the victory that has overcome the world—our faith.'

Sources consulted:

<http://www.jewishvirtuallibrary.org/jsource/anti-semitism/iranjews.html#1>
The Charlotte, North Carolina, Jewish Community Center Resource Library

Chosen People Ministries has been taking the love of the Messiah to Jewish people worldwide since 1894.

Chosen People Ministries UK Board of Directors: Mr. Tim Bath • Mrs. Yvonne Bath • Dr. Mitch Glaser • Rev. Kenneth Jefferson • Rev. Dr. Hartmut Kopsch • Mr. Daniel Nessim • Rev. Keith Page • Dr. John Pretlove, Chair • Mr. Peter Pretlove, Treasurer • Mrs. Elizabeth Hockenhull (advisor)

Serving in: Argentina • Australia • Canada • France • Germany • Great Britain • Hong Kong • Israel • Mexico • New Zealand • Russia • Ukraine • United States

The Chosen People UK Edition newsletter is published bimonthly by Chosen People Ministries.

To receive a copy, write to: Chosen People Ministries, PO Box 47871, Golders Green, LONDON NW11 1AL.

For more information call us at 020 8455 7911 or write to us at info@chosenpeople.org.uk.

Design: Lois Gable.

©2008 Chosen People Ministries (UK) Registered Charity No. 1095644, a company limited by guarantee in England No. 4611406. Printed in the United Kingdom.

VISIT US ON THE WEB AT WWW.CHOSENPEOPLE.ORG.UK.

DIRECTOR'S LETTER

God willing, as you receive this letter, most of the staff and trustees of Chosen People Ministries will not be in London, but in Israel, for an international workers' conference. This is a once-in-a-decade event, and very special for us all. While we are there, no doubt we will be conscious of the threat that hangs over Israel's head like the sword of Damocles. Of course, the concern of the world is more that Israel might defend herself against the sworn nuclear threat than over the possibility that her enemies might use their weapon for its declared intent. That declared intent is to 'wipe Israel from the face of the earth.'

Whatever your views on peace in the Middle East, I am sure that you agree that this is not a tolerable threat for any nation to live with. This is a threat that all Israelis—including our workers, our friends and relatives—live with in the Land every day. Yet, they continue to share their faith, and in the heat of the crucible, people are coming to recognise their Messiah, and refined gold and silver are coming forth. When we have been there and learned more about our work in that Land, we will share with you what we have seen. In the meantime, you might consider joining us for a tour to Israel next spring, as advertised within this newsletter.

Daniel Nessim

In every generation, there have been those who sought to destroy the Jewish people. As the threat from Israel's immediate neighbours has diminished in the last decades, new threats have arisen from further afield. Is there a reason for this? We believe there is, and that it is a spiritual reason. The Jewish people are still the 'apple of God's eye.' Corrie Ten Boom, who helped hide Jewish people from the Nazis during the Holocaust, knew this verse from Zechariah and lived by it. The Adversary opposes God, and therefore opposes those that God cares for. God still cares for the Jewish people, including the Jewish people who live in the State of Israel. It is His desire that all people everywhere should repent (Acts 17:30).

There are those who believe that in preaching the Gospel to Jewish people, we are committing a 'spiritual genocide.' The fear is that this too could lead to the destruction of the Jewish people. On the contrary, the words that we speak are life and truth. The Messiah that we lift up is the Messiah of Israel. It is in Him that the Jewish people can truly become alive. What a wonderful thing it is to see Jewish people in Israel increasingly turning to Jesus, Yeshua, and accepting Him not only as Messiah but also as Lord and Saviour. It is our prayer that this wave of the Spirit might also come to our shores, here on the British Isles. It is to this end that we work and pray.

This month, we have chosen to highlight the very real threat that Israel faces from Iran. It is an increasingly real threat as Iran's nuclear programme advances and as they test missiles that could easily reach the cities of Israel. It is my hope that you will be a bit more aware both of the dangerous situation, but also of the way that God can work in the lives of individuals who are affected by it. As we actively support the work of Chosen People Ministries in Israel, we need you to pray with us that in this dire situation, God might turn evil to good. The greatest good we can think of is the reconciliation of individuals to their God.

Thank you for your prayers and support for our work here in the United Kingdom and abroad.

Yours in our Messiah,

Daniel
Daniel

NEWS BRIEFS

Opportunity in Israel

Victor writes from Israel: A few weeks ago, a girl who serves in the Israeli Defense Forces with our daughter called my wife and asked her to tell a group of fifty soldiers about Messianic Judaism. God is a miracle-working God! Moreover, on her way to meet the group, Julia met John, a dear friend of ours and pastor who worked with us here years ago whom we hadn't seen for a long time! John joined us to speak to the soldiers, and they were overwhelmed to see this Gentile man who laid aside everything to serve Israel and the Jewish people. Julia and a young Jewish believer gave their testimony and were extremely well received.

Shocked into Listening

Ricardo C., our director in Argentina writes: 'I recently had some speaking engagements in Cordoba, Argentina. There, I met a young Jew, 22-year-old Mark. After an hour-long conversation, he was so interested in our message that he came with us to another presentation we had in that city. Knowing he was carefully listening to me, I emphasised the sacrifice of the living Messiah who makes us clean before God.

Mark was so shocked that later he came to me to tell me he would start coming to our ministry's activities in Cordoba. Interestingly, he is doing a course with a non-Messianic rabbi. As we were talking I was able to show him the rabbi's mistakes. This made him even more interested!

Mark will surely talk about what he has seen and heard, and this will have an effect upon the whole Jewish community of Cordoba. Now we pray for him, because he has listened to the Good News.

Iran and the Jewish People A History of Hostility

BY DR DAN GOLDBERG

Modern-day Iran, which is situated east of Iraq beyond the Tigris River, boasts a long and colourful history. Biblically, it is the same Persian Empire that Cyrus the Great established in 550 BC, after Babylonia surrendered to Cyrus (Ezra 1:3-5) in the time of the exile of the Jewish people in that region. The reign of Darius the Mede (522-468 BC) marked the zenith of the Persian Empire (Daniel 5:31).

How ironic it is, given the present animosity between these two ancient peoples, that the Persians lent their support to a Jewish return to their homeland in the time of Ezra and Nehemiah.

Iran under Islam

Centuries later, after the death of Mohammed in 632 AD, the religion of Islam infiltrated Iran, and today Iran is a Muslim country. The present population of Iran is about 70 million people, a majority of them Shia Muslims (89%), with a minority of Sunni Muslims (10%). Although there has been a Jewish presence in Iran since well before the rise of Islam, the Jewish population there now numbers only a few thousand people. By contrast, there are currently 250,000 Iranian Israelis. These include both those born in Iran and now living in Israel, and those born in Israel to one or both Iranian-born parents.

Ahmadinejad said, 'Israel is a disgraceful blot that must be wiped off the map.'

Iran is now a country governed by hardliners who intend to end Western influence in the Muslim world, eradicate Israel, and establish a radical Islamic empire that would span from Spain to Indonesia.

Politics of Hatred

Casting the Jewish people as the scapegoat responsible for all evil is not a new political strategy, but it is one that has certainly worked before. At an anti-Israel conference titled 'The World without Zionism' attended by 4,000 students in Tehran, Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad said,

continued on page 4

Dariush—An Iranian Jew Meets the Messiah

I was born in Tehran. I grew up in a Jewish home, but only went to synagogue two or three times a year. At the time, Iran was a secular Muslim nation with a Jewish population of roughly 70,000 centred in Tehran. Though Iran was friendly to Western culture, the nation never embraced the Jewish people. I remember watching my fellow Iranians in the streets chanting 'death to the Jews' before a soccer game in which Iran was to compete with Israel.

In 1975, I moved to the United States to attend college. There, I met Eliezer Urbach, then an outreach worker with Chosen People Ministries. I was intrigued by the idea that Jesus was the Jewish Messiah and even attended a meeting, but left uninterested. Some students followed up with me and showed me unconditional love as they explained the Gospel and Jesus' fulfilment of the Messianic prophecies in the Hebrew Scriptures. Not only did I come to faith in Messiah Jesus, but I became even more interested in my Jewish heritage and continued to celebrate the biblical holy days.

I soon told my parents, who were still living in Iran, of my new faith. Though they initially showed indifference, as I witnessed to them they became nervous. They spoke with a rabbi in Israel, who explained that I had been brainwashed by Christian missionaries. My parents became extremely concerned and demanded I return to Iran. I agreed, but hid my passport and return ticket after I arrived for fear they would take them from me.

Tried and Tested in the Faith

In Tehran, and later in Jerusalem, my parents took me to two rabbis in an attempt to talk me out of my beliefs. Ultimately, they decided to enrol me in a yeshiva (a strict Orthodox Jewish school) for troubled youths in New York.

The yeshiva was designed to be totally self-sufficient; students had very few reasons even to go outside, and quitting school was out of the question. Still, despite their efforts to change my mind, I only became more convinced of my faith and resolved to leave the yeshiva.

While in New York, I became friends with Sam Nadler, a Jewish believer who later served with Chosen People Ministries. In order to move out of the yeshiva unnoticed, I began slowly to move my belongings into Sam's home. Finally, one weekend, I left and never went back.

Once back in Colorado, I told my parents what had happened. They cut off my financial support. I kept my address hidden from them and worked my way through college. I eventually moved to Los Angeles, met my wife, and participated in an Iranian church.

After the Iranian Revolution, my parents moved to Los Angeles. Seeing my continued love for my Jewish identity, their hearts softened towards me, my family, and my faith. Today, my family and I participate in outreaches to Iranian Jews and Muslims in the Los Angeles area.

DIRECTOR'S LETTER

God willing, as you receive this letter, most of the staff and trustees of Chosen People Ministries will not be in London, but in Israel, for an international workers' conference. This is a once-in-a-decade event, and very special for us all. While we are there, no doubt we will be conscious of the threat that hangs over Israel's head like the sword of Damocles. Of course, the concern of the world is more that Israel might defend herself against the sworn nuclear threat than over the possibility that her enemies might use their weapon for its declared intent. That declared intent is to 'wipe Israel from the face of the earth.'

Whatever your views on peace in the Middle East, I am sure that you agree that this is not a tolerable threat for any nation to live with. This is a threat that all Israelis—including our workers, our friends and relatives—live with in the Land every day. Yet, they continue to share their faith, and in the heat of the crucible, people are coming to recognise their Messiah, and refined gold and silver are coming forth. When we have been there and learned more about our work in that Land, we will share with you what we have seen. In the meantime, you might consider joining us for a tour to Israel next spring, as advertised within this newsletter.

Daniel Nessim

In every generation, there have been those who sought to destroy the Jewish people. As the threat from Israel's immediate neighbours has diminished in the last decades, new threats have arisen from further afield. Is there a reason for this? We believe there is, and that it is a spiritual reason. The Jewish people are still the 'apple of God's eye.' Corrie Ten Boom, who helped hide Jewish people from the Nazis during the Holocaust, knew this verse from Zechariah and lived by it. The Adversary opposes God, and therefore opposes those that God cares for. God still cares for the Jewish people, including the Jewish people who live in the State of Israel. It is His desire that all people everywhere should repent (Acts 17:30).

There are those who believe that in preaching the Gospel to Jewish people, we are committing a 'spiritual genocide.' The fear is that this too could lead to the destruction of the Jewish people. On the contrary, the words that we speak are life and truth. The Messiah that we lift up is the Messiah of Israel. It is in Him that the Jewish people can truly become alive. What a wonderful thing it is to see Jewish people in Israel increasingly turning to Jesus, Yeshua, and accepting Him not only as Messiah but also as Lord and Saviour. It is our prayer that this wave of the Spirit might also come to our shores, here on the British Isles. It is to this end that we work and pray.

This month, we have chosen to highlight the very real threat that Israel faces from Iran. It is an increasingly real threat as Iran's nuclear programme advances and as they test missiles that could easily reach the cities of Israel. It is my hope that you will be a bit more aware both of the dangerous situation, but also of the way that God can work in the lives of individuals who are affected by it. As we actively support the work of Chosen People Ministries in Israel, we need you to pray with us that in this dire situation, God might turn evil to good. The greatest good we can think of is the reconciliation of individuals to their God.

Thank you for your prayers and support for our work here in the United Kingdom and abroad.

Yours in our Messiah,

Daniel
Daniel

NEWS BRIEFS

Opportunity in Israel

Victor writes from Israel: A few weeks ago, a girl who serves in the Israeli Defense Forces with our daughter called my wife and asked her to tell a group of fifty soldiers about Messianic Judaism. God is a miracle-working God! Moreover, on her way to meet the group, Julia met John, a dear friend of ours and pastor who worked with us here years ago whom we hadn't seen for a long time! John joined us to speak to the soldiers, and they were overwhelmed to see this Gentile man who laid aside everything to serve Israel and the Jewish people. Julia and a young Jewish believer gave their testimony and were extremely well received.

Shocked into Listening

Ricardo C., our director in Argentina writes: 'I recently had some speaking engagements in Cordoba, Argentina. There, I met a young Jew, 22-year-old Mark. After an hour-long conversation, he was so interested in our message that he came with us to another presentation we had in that city. Knowing he was carefully listening to me, I emphasised the sacrifice of the living Messiah who makes us clean before God.

Mark was so shocked that later he came to me to tell me he would start coming to our ministry's activities in Cordoba. Interestingly, he is doing a course with a non-Messianic rabbi. As we were talking I was able to show him the rabbi's mistakes. This made him even more interested!

Mark will surely talk about what he has seen and heard, and this will have an effect upon the whole Jewish community of Cordoba. Now we pray for him, because he has listened to the Good News.

Iran and the Jewish People A History of Hostility

BY DR DAN GOLDBERG

Modern-day Iran, which is situated east of Iraq beyond the Tigris River, boasts a long and colourful history. Biblically, it is the same Persian Empire that Cyrus the Great established in 550 BC, after Babylonia surrendered to Cyrus (Ezra 1:3-5) in the time of the exile of the Jewish people in that region. The reign of Darius the Mede (522-468 BC) marked the zenith of the Persian Empire (Daniel 5:31).

How ironic it is, given the present animosity between these two ancient peoples, that the Persians lent their support to a Jewish return to their homeland in the time of Ezra and Nehemiah.

Iran under Islam

Centuries later, after the death of Mohammed in 632 AD, the religion of Islam infiltrated Iran, and today Iran is a Muslim country. The present population of Iran is about 70 million people, a majority of them Shia Muslims (89%), with a minority of Sunni Muslims (10%). Although there has been a Jewish presence in Iran since well before the rise of Islam, the Jewish population there now numbers only a few thousand people. By contrast, there are currently 250,000 Iranian Israelis. These include both those born in Iran and now living in Israel, and those born in Israel to one or both Iranian-born parents.

Ahmadinejad said, 'Israel is a disgraceful blot that must be wiped off the map.'

Iran is now a country governed by hardliners who intend to end Western influence in the Muslim world, eradicate Israel, and establish a radical Islamic empire that would span from Spain to Indonesia.

Politics of Hatred

Casting the Jewish people as the scapegoat responsible for all evil is not a new political strategy, but it is one that has certainly worked before. At an anti-Israel conference titled 'The World without Zionism' attended by 4,000 students in Tehran, Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad said,

continued on page 4

Dariush—An Iranian Jew Meets the Messiah

I was born in Tehran. I grew up in a Jewish home, but only went to synagogue two or three times a year. At the time, Iran was a secular Muslim nation with a Jewish population of roughly 70,000 centred in Tehran. Though Iran was friendly to Western culture, the nation never embraced the Jewish people. I remember watching my fellow Iranians in the streets chanting 'death to the Jews' before a soccer game in which Iran was to compete with Israel.

In 1975, I moved to the United States to attend college. There, I met Eliezer Urbach, then an outreach worker with Chosen People Ministries. I was intrigued by the idea that Jesus was the Jewish Messiah and even attended a meeting, but left uninterested. Some students followed up with me and showed me unconditional love as they explained the Gospel and Jesus' fulfilment of the Messianic prophecies in the Hebrew Scriptures. Not only did I come to faith in Messiah Jesus, but I became even more interested in my Jewish heritage and continued to celebrate the biblical holy days.

I soon told my parents, who were still living in Iran, of my new faith. Though they initially showed indifference, as I witnessed to them they became nervous. They spoke with a rabbi in Israel, who explained that I had been brainwashed by Christian missionaries. My parents became extremely concerned and demanded I return to Iran. I agreed, but hid my passport and return ticket after I arrived for fear they would take them from me.

Tried and Tested in the Faith

In Tehran, and later in Jerusalem, my parents took me to two rabbis in an attempt to talk me out of my beliefs. Ultimately, they decided to enrol me in a yeshiva (a strict Orthodox Jewish school) for troubled youths in New York.

The yeshiva was designed to be totally self-sufficient; students had very few reasons even to go outside, and quitting school was out of the question. Still, despite their efforts to change my mind, I only became more convinced of my faith and resolved to leave the yeshiva.

While in New York, I became friends with Sam Nadler, a Jewish believer who later served with Chosen People Ministries. In order to move out of the yeshiva unnoticed, I began slowly to move my belongings into Sam's home. Finally, one weekend, I left and never went back.

Once back in Colorado, I told my parents what had happened. They cut off my financial support. I kept my address hidden from them and worked my way through college. I eventually moved to Los Angeles, met my wife, and participated in an Iranian church.

After the Iranian Revolution, my parents moved to Los Angeles. Seeing my continued love for my Jewish identity, their hearts softened towards me, my family, and my faith. Today, my family and I participate in outreaches to Iranian Jews and Muslims in the Los Angeles area.